A background in English/Language Arts is a broad and versatile field that offers students a variety of career paths. Courses in ELA provide foundational communications skills that are needed in every occupation. Students studying English/Language Arts may consider courses in a career-related pathway such as Healthcare, Science, Business Management and Administration and Law. ELA students learn to research and analyze information and to relay that information through speaking, writing and graphic communications. Many ELA courses include studies about cultures and the impact of culture on the history and continuing development of the English language as written and spoken forms of communications.
